

UNCOMMON COMMUNICATION

INTRODUCTION

Communication represents an essential and important human need- human interaction, not just orally but written as well as visually. It is defined as the process where two or more people exchange ideas, facts, feelings and so on. Today, the Internet has made it possible to be able to express ourselves at a given time to one or a million people at the push of a button or rather, a touch. Though the knowledge of these tools is important, effective communication is a combination of both good tools and communication skills.

Learners begin by understanding the basics of the various forms of communication, stories, letters, emails and social media.

Learners exit this module with an understanding of how to use different forms of communication effectively and the need for each.

This module is a part of the “LIVE - A HAPPY HEALTHY AND RESPONSIBLE LIFE” series.
